

[Control Method for use with a Steerable Drilling System]

Abstract

A control method for use with a steerable drilling system comprises the steps of inputting parametric model data representative of drilling conditions and using the data to determine achievable drilling directions.